Hill Team Defeated by Cla... son, 3-1, But Rallies to Beat St. Lawrence, 2-1

CHATFIELD STARS

Both Games Marked by Batting Weakness of Team

The Hamilton baseball team redeemed itself for the 3-1 defeat suffered at the hands of Clarkson Tech. last Thursday, by gaining an unexpected triumph over the strong St Lawrence team on Friday, by the score of 2-1. This game marks the first time in several years that Hamilton has defeated St. Lawrence in baseball, and only the third time in three years that the St. Lawrence baseball team has been defeated.

Weakness at the bat and a three-base hit by Wheeler, Clarkson's third baseman, spelled disaster for Hamilton on Thursday. Dietrich, Tech's pitcher, fanned eight Buff and Blue men and was nicked for only three hits. Calkins, Hamilton's twirler, was reached for only seven hits by the Tech batters, but two of these coupled with a walk, came in the same inning.

Hamilton scored its lone run in the first inning, on M. Stevens' walk and Knox's two-base hit. Clarkson evened the score in the third when Calkins issued passes to Dietrich and Patterson, the first two men to face him. After Brett had advanced both runners with a sacrifice bunt, Bevilacque scored Dietrich with a sacrifice fly to center field. Tech's other two runs were earned in the eighth frame as a result of Bevilacque's single Benke's walk, and Wheeler's long drive to right field.

A large part of the credit for the victory over St. Lawrence belongs to Chatfield, Hamilton's pitcher, who allowed only six hits and was at his best in the pinches. In the eighth

PHI BETA KAPPA TO HOLD MEETING SOON

Professor Northrup of Cornell to Be Principal Speaker

The Central New York Association of Phi Beta Kappa will hold its 1929 meeting with the Hamilton College Chapter this Saturday at the Yahnundasis Golf Club, according to a recent announcement by Dean Fitch, president of the Association. Invitations have been sent to all chapters in the Middle Atlantic District for the affair, which will consist of luncheon at 1 o'clock, several speeches, and a short business session, to be followed by a drive to the College Campus.

The feature of the occasion will be an address by Professor Clark S. Northrup of Cornell University on "The Organization and Policies of Phi Beta Kappa." Professor Northrup is the President of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa and the delegate of the Central New York Association to the Triennial Convention. It is expected that this will be followed by a discussion to be led by Dr. William Henry Crawford, President of the Middle Atlantic District of Phi Beta Kappa.

Professor Cleveland K. Chase is in charge of reservatoins and it has been requested that these be made as soon as possible.

DAVIS APPOINTS HANDBOOK BOARD

Seven Juniors Will Constitute Staff Of Freshman Guidebook

Frederick N. Davis, editor-in-chief of the Freshman Handbook for 1930, has appointed seven juniors to aid him in editing next year's edition. The appointees to the board are: David H. Beetle, Frederick M. Homrighouse, Jr., Louis C. Jones, James W. Moore, John H. Niemeyer, Robert G. Sewell and Robert L. Webster.

The business staff will consist of Joseph J. Ferlo, Business Manager, and Edmund T. Rumble. The appointment of Rumble to the position of Assistant Business Manager is in accordance with an innovation made this year by Pi Delta Epsilon to the effect that the sophomore finishing second in the competition for the business managership of Hamilton Life should be awarded the business managership of the Handbook. Ferlo was appointed business manager on the basis of a separate competition conducted last spring.

Flaming Youth Not So Flaming Thinks Utica Press Editor At Hill Parties

As decorous as a church supper is the way the Utica Daily Press, of which Paul B. Williams, '08, is editor, describes the recent Hamilton House Parties. The following is an extract from an editorial entitled "The Younger Generation," which appeared in the Press Monday morning:

"Every so often someone comes into the office to bewail the faults of the rising generation. Being young enough himself to sympathize with the recipients of this gratuitous advice and also possessing a newspaper man's curiosity, he (the editor) decided to take a look at some of 'the youngsters' revels.

"The opportunity was afforded by the house parties at Hamilton College, which ended Saturday night. Having the necessary credentials in the form of an invitation, and being properly chaperoned by his wife, he went to Clinton prepared for a shock. He got the shock, but in a manner directly opposite to what had been anticipated.

"Now, if you wish the real 'lowdown,' gather close. Don't tell this to a soul, and whatever happens, don't let on who told you. Not even at a church supper has the writer seen recently so much propriety as prevailed at this college house party. It was duly, officially, authoritatively and impeccably chaperoned. The young men were meticulous in their manners. The young ladies were even more so. Knees were in retirement. Gowns were nowhere near as daring as those revealed in the chaste pages of the Ladies Home Journal for the adornment or revelation of these youngsters' mothers. The dancing, for the most part, was so slow that it could not possibly have mussed the fluffiest of bobbed hair and the make-up, if any, was not obstreperous.

"The only thing to which the writer could possibly take exception, reflects merely his own lack of admiration for the queer looking clothes girls are wearing . They are distinctly lop-sided, as though the skirts had caught in a swinging door. However, that is a matter of taste, and if the girls like dresses which resemble bunting, after a hard rain, that's their affair.

"As a riot, this party was anything else but. It was as sedate as proceedings of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The conclusion seems to be that folks who imagine that Clara Bow is collegiate, and that what the younger generation does via Hollywood, represents their general conduct, are unduly apprehensive. They may get some vicarious thrills out of the presumed misdeeds of flaming youth, but otherwise their unctuous worry is only silly. If these boys and girls could have looked in on the average country club party where the fair, fat and 40 are in action, they might have seen something to talk about. On the contrary, they seemed quite happy to be let alone. Their elders might follow their example and incidentally, ponder their flippant advice — 'Act your age.'"

HILL HEALTHFUL, CLAIMS HAMLIN

College Doctor Takes Issue With Cornell Man on Student Physical Condition

By Francis J. Crowley, '31

According to Dr. Varney B. Hamlin, college physician, Hamilton is an exception to the theory advanced by Dr. Dean F. Smiley of Cornell that the health of college students trends downwards from the time they enter college as freshmen until they leave. On the contrary, the health of the average Hamilton student improves as he advances in college, Dr. Hamlin told a Life reporter in a recent interview.

Dr. Hamlin explains this theory by saying that a student learns new methods of caring for himself each year he is in college. As a freshman, he is without the influence of home and mother for the first time and is naturally inclined to be a little careless about his health. As he completes each year, however, he becomes adapted to the Hill environment and, in addition, his experience makes him realize that he must pay more attention to his physical being.

"Although there is a larger percentage of colds on the Hill than there should be, yet the average Hamilton man is a rather healthy person," says Dr. Hamlin. There are relatively few digestive disorders in comparison to the diseases of the upper respiratory passage. Of course, the chances are great for one to take a cold from another, because men are brought into close contact with each other in classes.

Deplores Carelessness

Carelessness, however, is a big factor in causing many of these colds. Dr. Hamlin believes that students expose themselves unwisely when they go without hats in cold weather and also when they run from a dormitory to the gymnasium clothed only in a bath robe. In addition, the college physician thinks that there are times in the year when high shoes should be worn.

Dr. Hamlin deplores one type of sickness which is prevalent on the Hill. There is a certain percentage of students who are apparently doing more than they should, and, as a result of loss of sleep, are in a state of exhaustion at regular intervals. It is difficult to discover the reasons why a student does not get sufficient rest.

If he does not participate in too many extra-curricular activities, his studies will not cause this exhaustion. A night party or a "bull session," coupled with an attempt to prepare for classes, however, may tire a student and compell him to seek aid in the infirmary. This is evidenced by the fact that Monday is the busiest day of the week for the infirmary.

MOST STUDENTS SERIOUS-MINDED

Dean Fitch Agrees With Recent Questionnaire — Collegiate Type Uncommon

By William Sloane, '32

Dean Fitch agreed with a majority of American college deans when interviewed regarding a "collegiate" questionnaire which Dean Henry Grattan Doyle of George Washington University sent to the deans of 300 American colleges and universities.

The American college man of today is a serious-minded individual, eschewing the coonskin coat, garterless socks, hard drinking, and the gaudily painted flivver, and is neat about his personal appearances, according to answers received as a result of the questionnaire. The "collegiate" of the stage and comic papers is an unimportant faction among the college boys of the land.

Despite public opinion concerning the conduct of modern college men and women ,the survey shows that in the opinion of the deans and presidents of American colleges, the student of today has higher ideals and purposes, does better and more serious scholastic work, and lives by a higher standard of moral conduct than the student of any preceding generation. Above all, they say, he is not going to the dogs.

The consensus of the replies showed that not over one or two per cent of the student body on any campus attempts to be "collegiate."

There was approximately an even division of opinion as to drinking, necking, neglect of class work, dishonesty in examinations and other ethical problems. About half of the deans thought there was a decided connection between the "collegiate" and such questions, while the other half thought they were unrelated.

Opinions from other eastern institutions follow:

Frank W. Nicholson, Dean of Wesleyan University—"The present generation of students here are well dressed, well behaved; a very different type from what we had 25 years ago—quite sophisticated. Speaking in general of their morals, I feel perfectly sure that they are on a higher plane than they have ever been before. I also think the scholastic standing is better on the average than it has ever been. The difficulties we have had about drinking, have been practically eliminated as a result of the undergraduate attitude."

O. E. Randall, Dean of Men, Brown University — "The 'collegiate' of the humorous press does not constitute five per cent of our personnel. Clean shaving, well shined shoes, starched linen and well pressed clothing are typical of our student body."

George Edwin Howes, Dean of Williams College—"The psychological attitude of our student body favors neat habits and courteous manner in

BUFF AND BLUE TRACKMEN ARE BEATEN; SCORES

R. P. I. Defeats Hill Team House Party Week-End in Close Contest

DISTANCES DISASTROUS

Loss of Cutter, Dutcher, Crane And Hartman Felt

A lead of 23 points in the distance events enabled the R. P. I. trackmen to defeat the Hamilton runners, 72 2-3 to 58 1-3, before numerous House Party guests Saturday. The Hamiltonians more than held their own in the other events, scoring seven of the 15 first places—three of them by Ford alone. The medley relay featured the meet, as Lathrop, final Hamilton runner, took a four-yard lead in the 880 after three sets of dead heats.

Suffering under the loss of four regular point-getters, Hamilton nevertheless almost evened with their opponents in the field events, far surpassed them in the sprints and hurdles, but lost heavily in the one-half, one and two-mile runs. Captain DeSormo, Tucker and Jayne accounted for three first places in the javelin, discus and pole-vaults to insure keen competition in the field.

In the sprints, Ford was by far the outstanding star of the day, winning his usual three first places in the century, 220 and low hurdles, and a third in the broad jump, for a total of 16 points. Frazee pressed him closely in the 100 and 220 to give Hamilton almost a clean sweep in these events, while the Buff and Blue took second and third places in the high hurdles and the 440. A stiff wind and a soft track slowed up the time in these events.

R. P. I. manifested its strength in the distance runs, taking all three places in the two-mile and both first and second in the one-half and one-mile races, to amass 25 points to Hamilton's two. They gathered eight more points in the broad jump and 7½ in the high jump.

The medley relay was the most spectacular event of the afternoon as Frazee, Corwin and Aderhold evened R. P. I. in the two 220 runs and the 440, until Lathrop, with a beautiful final sprint, passed his opponent in the 880 to win by four yards.

The loss of Cutter in the hurdles and broad jump, Dutcher in the dashes, Hartman in the pole-vault, and Crane in the distance runs—due to sickness and injuries —was a great handicap to the Buff and Blue. Had Cutter alone been in condition for

HILL TENNIS TEAM LOSES TO COLGATE

Rain Stops Match With Albany State After Three Singles Sets

An unusually weak Hamilton tennis team met a 6-0 defeat at the hands of a more experienced Colgate team in a match played on the latter's courts Friday afternoon. Rain interrupted the second week-end encounter with Albany State Teacher's College here Saturday afternoon. When Manager Edwards officially called the match off, Hamilton was leading 2-1, with a fourth singles match still unfinished.

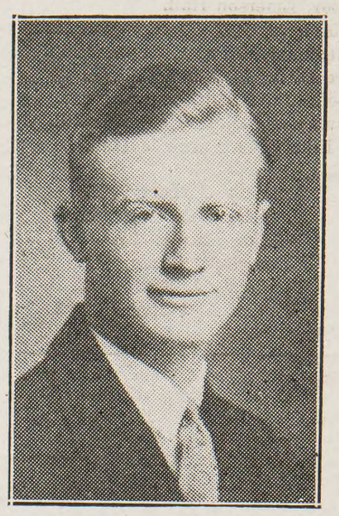
Boeve put up a stiff battle with Kent of Colgate, playing No. 1 man, and after dropping the first set, 2-6, came back in the second set only to lose out after the set had twice gone to deuce, 6-8. Kavakos, playing No. 2 for Hamilton, also had a hard fight with Hofheims of Colgate, losing both sets by small margins. The scores were 6-8, 3-6.

Harwood and Smelzer of Hamilton were more decisively defeated by Frank and Deiseroth, respectively, of Colgate, by the scores 0-6, 1-6 and 1-6, 2-6.

The doubles matches were very closely contested, nearly every game going to deuce. Boeve and Smelzer of Hamilton lost to Kent and Hofheins of Colgate, 2-6, 6-8, and Kavakos and Harwood of Hamilton dropped their match to Frank and Galbreath of Colgate, 4-6, 6-8.

Very poor weather prevailed on Saturday when the Hamilton team made its initial appearance at home. A sweeping wind blew across the courts and shots were more a matter of luck than skill. Rain interrupted the match atfer the completion of but three of the singles matches, at which time Hamilton led, 2-1.

To Study Abroad



Abraham David Williams

Abraham David Williams, '26, of Clinton, has been awarded the Maxwell Fellowship of the Auburn Theological Seminary, providing for one year's study at the University of Edinburgh. During his attendance at Auburn he has been active both in scholastic and extra-curricular activities, being president of his class and member of the baseball and basketball teams. Next year he plans to study at the Union Theological Seminary or the Theological School at Harvard, before going to Edinburgh to complete his graduate work.

HILL PLAYERS ARE FORTUNATE

Only Amateur Organization Given Permission to Present "Journey's End"

According to announcement by President Barns, the Charlatans is the only organization that has been able to secure the right to present "Journey's End" aside from the two original companies in London and New York.

Plans for the presentation are advancing rapidly. The try-outs held Monday in the Little Theater resulted in the following selections:

Capt. Hardy	W. Jarrett
Lieut. Osborne	R. Atkins
Private Mason	Z. Macmillan
2nd Lieut. Raleigh	C. Symonds
Capt. Stanhope	R. Barns
2nd Lieut. Hilbert	J. Jones
Sergeant-Major	P. Cutter
Colonel	F. Ellison
2nd Lieut. Trotter	J. Walsh
German Soldier	W. Mangan
American Soldier	R. Rogers

The scene of the story, which is being presented on Broadway with great success, is laid in an officer's dug-out in France in 1918. It is an attempt to portray the life of the war. The action centers about Capt. Stanhope and his company of English soldiers. Raleigh, college chum of Stanhope, is a hero-worshipper, the captain being his ideal. Stanhope, in love with Raleigh's sister, is averse to having him in his company. As the play progresses, Raleigh discovers that his hero is not all he was thought to be.

THREE-DAY TRIP FOR GEOLOGISTS

All Men in Professor Dale's Department to Attend Conference

The New York State Geological Association, founded here at Hamilton May 6, 1924, at which time all colleges in the state were represented, will hold its fifth annual field meet at Gouverenur, N. Y., May 15-16-17. This particular locality is situated in one of the most interesting mineral regions of North America. Pre-Cambrian rocks, dating back 500-1,000 years, will be studied, stressing glacial and economic glaciology.

Friday evening, following a dinner at the St. Lawrence Inn, Prof. Dale of Hamilton, Prof. Alling of the University of Rochester, and Prof. Buddington of Princeton, will lead the discussion on the geology of the region. All members of geology courses 4, 8, 10, will make the trip.

Previous meets have been held at Syracuse, Ithaca and Poughkeepsie. Short trips will be made to various points of interest, including several visits to iron ore mines. The trip will be made by automobiles.

Kenneth E. Vought, '25, (Lambda Chi Alpha) has been admitted to the bar and will practice at 393 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

FAIR WEATHER FAVORS SPRING HOUSE PARTIES

All Fraternities But Lambda Chi Alpha Entertain Over Week-End

OVER 200 GUESTS HERE

Baseball and Track Contests Provide Entertainment

Starting early Friday afternoon, when the first guests began to arrive on the Hill, the annual Spring House Party reigned uppermost in local minds throughout the week-end. Numerous features were provided for the entertainment of the feminine guests, who numbered well over 200.

Activities began Friday afternoon, when the Hamilton baseball team played St. Lawrence University on the home field and defeated the invaders in a closely contested battle, by a score of two to one. The visitors had the opportunity to witness an exhibition of excellent pitching by Chatfield, and an exciting moment when Morris slid under the opposing catcher's hand to score the winning run.

On Friday evening, the fraternities held open house to the upperclassmen of the other crowds, with the exception of Lambda Chi Alpha, which had no party out of respect for its recently deceased member, James H. Campbell. Two features of visiting night were the opening of the new Emerson Hall and the new Alpha Delta Phi House, both of which were continually filled with an influx of friends from the other crowds. The usual large number were to be found at breakfast in the Union Station early Saturday morning in varying degrees of somnolence.

In accordance with old custom, the D. T. neophytes produced their dramatic masterpiece on the Chapel steps Saturday noon, despite the discouraging influence of quantities of water, which descended upon them from above. The climax of the occasion was marked by the descent of Estabrook from the bell-tower by means of the bell-rope.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT INCREASES PROGRAM

Prof. Shute Announces Morning Classes for Next Fall

Following closely upon the heels of the announcement of plans for the renovation of Silliman Hall, in order to provide more suitable quarters for the Department of Music, Professor Shute has announced that the opening of the fall semester will see an extra morning session of Music 1-2 and the shifting of other sections to do away with conflicts.

Some of the features of the new quarters of the Department will be a classroom on the first floor, a soundproof practice room, with a grand piano in place of the present upright, and a modern electric phonograph.

It is expected that the renovation of Silliman Hall and the installation of more modern facilities will enable the Department to take care of a number of students who are now unable to elect music. In connection with this, students are reminded that Music 1-2 does not require any previous knowledge of music beyond an interest in the subject.

INTERESTING AND TRUE

The questionnaire recently compiled by Henry Gratten Doyle, dean of George Washington University, concerning the opinion of 300 college deans as to the ratio of the "moving picture collegian" to the serious-minded student is interesting if not particularly startling.

In the first place that paltry number whose opinions on the American college student are of some value is likewise intelligent enough to know that the moving picture caricatures are caricatures. In the second place, we are not especially surprised that 300 college deans should declare that their campuses — or should we say their libraries — are crowded with serious-minded intellectualists eagerly cramming facts. Quite the contrary! Our imagination fails us when we attempt to picture a dean who comes forward with a naive expression and says: " 'Tis a poor college, but mine own!"

Our attitude toward the questionnaire is this: We believe that it is a sincere, carefully prepared analysis of the opinions of a sincere, well-informed group concerning a subject about which the group would be prejudiced and about which there is really, despite our motion pictures, very little misapprehension. The much over-worked average man may roar at "collegiate" comedies and enjoy "super-collegiate" stories, but get him into a serious discussion about colleges, if such is possible, and you invariably find that his faith in the college and in the college man is absolutely unshaken.

Despite this rigorous indictment, there are many things of a more favorable nature that may be said. In the first place the questionnaire is sure to promote a wholesome discussion of the subject. In the second place it is likely to bring further disrepute upon the heads of those few "collegiate" anomalies. Finally, we most willingly admit that the survey is extremely interesting.

MUCHAS GRACIAS!

We sometimes wonder if the day may not possibly be approaching when Hamilton Life editors will scan the horizon in every direction and weep in true Alexandrian fashion for more and better worlds to conquer. Not so long ago, the previous editorial staff had occasion to thank the administration for a readjustment of the public speaking requirements. Today, we of the present staff, thank the Board of Trustees for its recent approval of a Union Building project, for many years a fertile field for indignant editors.

The most recent agitation was begun through the medium of competitive editorials. It was carried on by a newly elected staff, which presented a definite plan for the renovation of Silliman Hall, the most desirable features of which have been adopted. True, Hamilton men will still be obliged to tote laundry cases no inconsiderable distance. True, the soda fountain remains firmly rooted in the college store, but as to the other features, Union Building facilities and offices for underpraduate organizations, they have been graciously promised—and it is to be hoped, will as graciously be received.

As to the extension of the music department by removal to the first floor of Silliman Hall, we confess that we still look rather jealously at the Clinton Post Office, a mile and a half away, but, at the same time, we commend the Board for its action. The work of Professor Shute, and particularly his enthusiasm which made possible the Musical Art Society, certainly deserves rewards more material than paeans of praise, however fitting the latter may be for a music department. We congratulate Professor Shute on his new facilities and we look forward with keen anticipation to the coming musical season..

Needless to add, we likewise look forward to a future for Silliman Hall greater than even the most optimistic college "Y" could possibly contemplate.

More Extensive Course In Italian Planned

Italian will be offered to the juniors and seniors of Hamilton in a two years' course next fall, to parallel the present courses in Spanish. Lewis H. Gordon, A. B., M. A., of Princeton, has been engaged to teach Italian 1-2 and 3-4, which will be open to the upperclassmen. It will be credited on exactly the same basis as Spanish, and will fill the requirements of the Romance Language major.

Italian 3-4 will, of course, not be taught until the fall of 1930. It is planned to make this course a survey of Italian literature.

Professor Gordon is well equipped to teach the subject, inasmuch as he has spent two years in graduate work at Princeton, as well as some time in foreign study.

frame, with men on second and third, he fanned O'Brien, the visitor's heaviest hitter, to end the inning. In addition, he made three of his team's hits and scored Morris in the third with what proved to be the winning run of the game.

St. Lawrence was forced to use two pitchers. Atiyeh, who started, was removed from the mound in the third inning with two out and the bases full and Hamilton leading, 2-1. Woodlock, who replaced him, retired the side and held the Buff and Blue scoreless during the rest of the game.

St. Lawrence tallied first, scoring its only run of the contest in the opening inning on Tenney's single, after Keller had walked. Hamilton tied the count in the same frame when Knox drove in M. Stevens, who had been walked, with a hit to right field. Morris singled in the third, was sacrificed to second ,and came home on Chatfield's hit to account for Hamilton's other run.

Playing an errorless fielding game behind Chatfield, the Hamilton team displayed a marked defensive improvement against St. Lawrence. The sophomore infielders cut off several threatening rallies of the visitors by handling many difficult chances cleanly. M. Stevens, at shortstop, was outstanding, with four hard stops.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

News has been received at our Fount of Learning that will surely gratify all those who like to hear the oratory spout therefrom. Public Spich is at last vindicated, justified, acquitted, or what have you. We'll never say another harsh word about THE DEPARTMENT.

The great news! Ah, the great news! Wuxtry! Bill Ferry, who strolled from these classic halls in '28, (he graduated; don't misunderstand us), recently officiated as judge in a public speaking contest. There, that just goes to show what Cal's Spartan training does for you. Nice going, Bill. We knew you were a gentleman and a scholar, but we just found out you were a judge of good public speaking contests.

FACULTY NOTES

Supe hasn't coined any epigrams lately.

Haist is enjoying another week off in this great column.

Daymont was seen on the campus the other day.

Gigi hasn't been mentioned in Carpe Diem since the start of the new regime. Detectives are trailing him constantly, though. Our snoopers are, of course, following the "Cherchez La Femme" theory.

Hank Heyl plans to take a copy of "American Speech" to Harvard Medical School next year so that he can get all the real lowdown on the tongue, teeth, larynx, etc. Even if they have a book about it at Harvard, it won't have all the pretty pictures.

Generally speaking, the faculty seems to be in deplorably good health and with no prospects of extended cutting in the near future. Weather, generally fair and warmer. Few tests during the next week.

TRACK AND BASEBALL SQUADS TO FACE KEEN COMPETITION

Baseball Players to Oppose R. P. I. and Union In Road Games

In the opening encounter of its second two-game trip, the Hamilton baseball team will face Union at Schenectady Friday. The Garnet, victorious over R. P. I. and St. Lawrence, is credited with two wins in three starts.

Although minus the services of Reville, hard hitting centerfielder, the Union nine captured a close 1-0 victory over St. Lawrence last week.

The Rensselaer nine, opposing Hamilton on Saturday, at Troy, has been severely handicapped by the weather. After its first two games had been rained out, the Cherry and White, with little chance to practice, met defeat at the hands of the Union team.

Last week, with no games scheduled, provided a chance for the Engineers to round into shape. Although there are eight letter men on the squad, they are veterans of a team that Hamilton defeated, 7-4, last year.

Rochester, Handicapped By Loss of Kraii, Faces Buff And Blue

Disheartened by the loss of Kraii, star middle-distance man, the Rochester track squad is preparing to receive the Buff and Blue at Rochester Saturday. Kraii, suffering from two fractured wrists, a broken knee cap and internal injuries, has little chance of returning to the track.

The Alfred University runners took the measure of the Rochester team last Friday even more easily than they defeated the Buff and Blue, piling up the overwhelming score of 97-34.

A comparison of previous scores with Rochester indicates that Hamilton will meet some close opposition, and will, at the same time, have a fair chance of winning. Improvement in the field events was noticeable in the R. P. I. meet, with the result that Hamilton may be able to carry the day in all departments, save in distance events, which are still a bit dubious.

Wilson Is Elected To Staff of Hamilton Life

Robert L. Wilson has been elected assistant business manager of Hamilton Life as the result of competition just concluded. Mr. Wilson was nominated by Theodore S. Corwin, business manager, elected by the board, and approved by the local chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon.

At the same meeting, Pi Delta Epsilon adopted a new plan whereby the second man in the competition for assistant business manager of Life will automatically be permitted to choose between the business managership of the Freshman Handbook and the "Lit." The third man will be given the remaining position. Inasmuch as the competition for the "Lit" has already started, the rule will not go completely into effect until next spring.

Mr. Wilson will automatically become business manager of Life his senior year. Joseph B. Fanning, present assistant manager, will be business manager for the year 1929-30.

PHI DELTA EPSILON TO OFFER PRIZES

Seeks Best News Stories Written By Student Reporters

Hamilton Life will be represented in the national news-story competition of Pi Delta Epsilon by the three best news contributions published in one of the May or June issues.

Selection locally will be made by three judges acting separately, Paul V. Combs, former editor-in-chief of Life; George Clark, Jr., former managing editor, and Frederick N. Davis, associate editor.

The National Competition will be judged by Karl Bickel, president of the United Press; Kent Cooper of the Associated Press; Russell Kent, president of the National Press Club; David Lawrence, editor of the United States Daily, and R. V. Oulahan, Washington Correspondent of the New York Times. Prizes range from ten to fifty dollars.

BONHAM SPEAKS IN UTICA

History Professor Addresses Parent-Teacher Group

Professor Milledge L. Bonham, Jr. addressed the Parent-Teacher Association of the Utica Free Academy Wednesday evening. During the course of his talk, Professor Bonham urged close co-operation between teachers and the parents and suggested aids toward helping study.

Comfortable study conditions and regular study hours, according to Professor Bonham, make for more enjoyable and efficient work on the part of young pupils. In speaking of the part played by the parent, he said: "Parents should uphold the principal's authority; they should try to see the teacher's side. Let the child understand that the teachers are respected and hold the confidence of the parents. Let the parents get to know the teachers; let them visit the schools; let them become interested in the education of their children, and a much better understanding will result."

SLIDES COLORED BY MR. SLEIGHT

Geology Instructor Prepares Pictures Taken Last Summer

Some time ago, through the courtesy of Virgil G. Sleight, instructor, students of geology were shown colored movie slides representing various geologic points of the Rocky Mountains. The coloring done by Mr. Sleight was quite successful and worthy of explanation.

The whole process, intricate but interesting, requires two and one-half hours. Emulsionized glass slides are first procured and covered with a silver solution. The negative of a certain photo is then placed on the slide, forming an imprint. It is next placed in a developer solution, where it is allowed to reach a certain density. After this, it is placed in a solution of sodium hyposulphite, which eradicates all excess silver. It is then washed, dried and ready to color.

The pictures were taken in the Grand Canyon, Rocky Mountain, and Mesa Verde National Parks, during Mr. Sleight's two and a half months' trip in that region last summer.

Professor Charles Lewis, '02, has just been appointed Superintendent of Schools in Frankfort. For many years a resident in Utica, Professor Lewis has held several positions. He was supervising principal in Canton, Gouverneur and Westwood, N. J., and is a former principal of Kingston High School. He also spent some time at Columbia University, where he took several courses in school administration.

You can bank on the quality of a cigarette that continues to be the biggest success in smoking history

CAMEL

WHY CAMELS ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE

Camels contain the choicest tobaccos grown . . . expertly blended for matchless taste and fragrance.

They have a welcome mellowness and mildness that you will find in no other cigarette.

Smoke them as often as you like, Camels never tire your taste.

The quality of Camels is never permitted to vary.

Only a superior cigarette could have won and held world leadership for all these years as Camel has done.

CRIST AND CHRETIEN MAKE TRANSLATIONS

Hamilton Instructors Are Finishing Difficult Task

Translations begun some time ago by Clifford M. Crist and C. Douglas Chretien, A. M., are rapidly nearing completion. Working together, under the supervision of Dr. William P. Shepard, head of the French Department, they have been engaged in the perusal and translation of an old French manuscript in the Copenhagen library entitled "Les Recits d'un Menestral de Rheims." This manuscript has never been read before.

A list of the variations of this original manuscript from the edition published in 1876 by Wailly, has been compiled and the results obtained from this stupendous task will be used by Professor Shepard in his forthcoming edition of this work. The two gentlemen engaged in this work have co-ordinated in the translation, but the tabulation and summarization of the results is being done by Mr. Crist.

The subject matter of this writing is a series of extremely colorful and interesting stories of the Crusades. Mr. Crist will offer this work as his dissertation for his Master's Degree in June.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the peace and quiet of the Hill was shattered by the raucous shrilling of the fire-siren and all hastened to trail the College fire extinguisher to the Delta Upsilon house, where it was discovered that fire had started in the wiring of a car. The excitement lasted for only a short time, but the ambition of many was fulfilled when they heard the siren blow for their first time.

A track meet with R. P. I. in the afternoon completed the athletic schedule for the week-end, although the tennis encounter with Albany State would have taken place had the weather permitted.

After the track meet, those with sufficient vitality remaining went either to the Theta Delta Chi house to the D. T. Tea Dance or to the Was Los Tea Dance at the Alpha Delt house. Closed parties at the houses on Saturday night brought the round of social activities to a close.

"HE'LL CALL IN A FEW MINUTES NOW!"

HOW they'll look forward for that weekly telephone call from you!

It isn't so much what you say (although of course they're always interested in anything you do). It's the fact that you're there—that they're hearing your voice.

It's easy to arrange too. Just tell them you'll telephone on a certain night each week at a convenient hour. They'll enjoy the few minutes you spend in talking to them—and so will you.

The cost? Even if you live a long ways off, the reduced evening and night rates will put it well within reach of your pocketbook.

Why not telephone tonight?
